

Show by Rock

It was a regular day at Western Hills Academy. Two friends were outside the music room, Alana Black and Michael Quinn. They had wanted to join the club ever since they had heard them play but they were too shy to ask to join.

"What will we say?" said Alana quickly.

"I don't know," replied Michael. "Won't they think we're weird wanting to join at this time of year?" Michael thought aloud.

Later that day after they couldn't bring themselves to ask to fill in a form to join the club, they were in their dorm playing their favourite video game, 'Music Wars.' They were both very good. The goal of the game was to beat all the dark monsters and save the band members. They were both on level 100 and they finally beat the level!

"Oh! We got new items," said Alana excitedly.

"We got a keytar Called Electric Skull and a bass named Moonflame!" Michael read out loud.

They were just about to get the items when the TV screen glitched and the screen went black.

"Great, is it broken now?" complained Michael.

Suddenly, a black face with red eyes appeared on the screen.

Alana screamed.

"What is that?" said Michael nervously.

"I don't know," replied Alana.

Suddenly, black tentacles came out of the TV and grabbed Alana and Michael and pulled them into the TV.

"I'm not having fun here," Michael and Alana said at the same time.

All around them was a techy pattern and there was a black void at the end. The tentacles pulled Alana and Michael into the void. Everything went black.....
