

Panther Chameleon

The panther chameleon lives in the Amazon Rainforest. They can change their colour to match the background. This is camouflage and it helps them to hide from predators. When they are angry, they turn yellow or red in colour.

Humans cannot hear the sounds that they make. Their eyes can swivel so they can look at two different things at the same time. They can see their prey at a distance of 5 to 10 metres.

They can be as small as 15mm or as large as 69cm. Chameleons eat leaves, twigs, flies, butterflies and other insects.
