Sligo School Project
Abbey Quarter, Sligo
Roll Number 19910U
Patron: Sligo School Project CLG

1. Introduction

This Admission Policy complies with the requirements of the Education Act 1998, the Education (Admission to Schools) Act 2018 and the Equal Status Act 2000. In drafting this policy, the board of management of the school has consulted with school staff, the school patron and with parents of children attending the school.

The policy was approved by the school patron on 12th February 2025. It is published on the school's website and is available in hardcopy on request through the school office.

The relevant dates and timelines for the admission process are set out in the school's annual admission notice which is published annually on the school's website at least one week before the commencement of the admission process for the school year concerned.

This policy must be read in conjunction with the annual admission notice for the school year concerned.

The application form for admission is published on the school's website and is available in hardcopy on request through the school office.

2. Characteristic spirit and general objectives of the school

The ethos of the school reflects a society in which there are many social, cultural and religious strands. It is based on five fundamental principles of Sligo School Project:

The multi-denominational and equality-based principle - whereby access to the school is independent of social, cultural and religious background.

The co-educational principle – whereby the school setting provides equal opportunities for all children irrespective of gender.

The child-centred principle – whereby the child is seen to be the author of its own learning.

The democratic principle – whereby the school is sensitive to the needs and aspirations of different status groups, encouraging active participation by parents whilst positively affirming the professional role of teachers.

The open communication principle – whereby the school is committed to ensure proper and open communication among parents, teachers and the school community.

These principles are rolled out in highly cooperative daily practice between adults and children in the school with an emphasis on self-governance and self-determination amongst the children. Teachers are called to follow the aspirations formulated in the Core Curriculum of Sligo School Project, specifically to

- Raise awareness and appreciation of our multicultural society.
- Engage with various religious beliefs, festivals and practises as well as world views which disbelieve in the existence of a supreme being or supreme beings without dogma, prejudice or indoctrination.
- Foster a sense of confidence and self-worth.
- Address emotions such as joy, enthusiasm, desire, grief, frustration, anger and disappointment with overall approval, acknowledgement for their reasons and the intent to understand them in their social origins.
- Support the development of individual talents, and encourage initiative, independence in thought and action as much as solidarity and empathy.
- Encourage a climate of critical analysis in all areas of school life.
- Promote equality among the sexes and to cultivate attitudes of care and respect towards the rights of others.
- Address the issues arising as a consequence from being in groups, large or small, voluntary or compulsory, like group think, peer pressure, mutual support and team spirit.
- Promote a culture of conflict resolution in a respectful and open minded manner.
- Promote an active and responsible role in caring for the environment.
- Raise awareness towards the hegemonic role of mass media and the presentation of consumer goods.
- Raise awareness of human rights, equality and justice in society.

Above all Sligo School Project is dedicated to the happiness, welfare and education of its pupils.
